DETAILED ACTION

Papers Received

Receipt is acknowledged of the applicant's petition for extension of time, amendment, and response, all received on 24 February 2005.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

The rejection of Claims 49, 50, 53, and 54 under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Coffee in view of Sturzenegger et al. and Roche et al. is rendered moot with the cancellation of those claims.

The rejection of Claims 18-26, 28, 43, 47, and 48 under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Coffee in view of Sturzenegger et al. and Roche et al. is hereby withdrawn.

The rejection of Claims 4-9, 11, 13-16, 29-32, 34-42, 44-46, 51, 52, and 55-60 under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Coffee in view of Sturzenegger et al. and Roche et al. is hereby withdrawn.

Claims 4-9, 11, 13-16, 29-32, 34-42, 44-46, 51, 52, and 55-66 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Coffee.

The Coffee document discloses processes and apparatuses for forming material by electrohydrodynamic comminution (See Abstract; and Page 4, Lines 1-4). In one aspect, the processes and apparatuses disclosed within the document is capable of producing various solid and partially solid forms, such as fibers, fiber segments, fibrils, droplets, particles, webs, and mats. This formed matter may also contain a biologically active ingredient (See Page 2, Line 12 to Page 3, Line 15). Fibers, fiber fragments, and particles of biological material, such as fibrin or collagen may also be formed using the processes and apparatuses (See Page 6, Lines 13-18). Alternatively, the active ingredient may be provided as a coating or core of the fibers, fibrils, or particles (See Page 5, Lines 7-28). Active ingredients may be supplied onto fibers, fibrils, or droplets in the form of a liquid that is dispensed through an outlet nozzle (See Page 22, Lines 23-33). The reference discloses that fibers have been successfully spun with polyhydroxybutyric acid, a resorbable polymer, and with polyvinyl alcohol, a water-soluble polymer (See Page 19, Lines 20-23). In the formation of material provided by the methods and apparatuses disclosed in the reference, the supply of the material may be assisted by an air or inert gas flow (See Claim 32; and Page 30, Lines 27-31). When a melt is used as the material to be formed by the apparatuses and processes disclosed in the reference, the temperature of this material may be controlled by quenching using a cold air or inert gas stream (See Page 11, Lines 17-22).

The Roche et al. patent is used here merely as a teaching reference to show that additives such as saccharin and peppermint flavoring are commonly known in the pharmaceutical arts (See Column 8, Lines 31-58).

As explained above, the Roche et al. patent is relied upon merely as a teaching reference. It is the position of the examiner that one of ordinary skill in the art could combine the collective disclosures of the prior art with a reasonable expectation of success. Though the prior art is silent with respect to a cutting step in the disclosed method of production, as the prior art has disclosed the manufacture of particles in addition to fibers and mats, it is the view of the examiner that the use of a cutting step is would be within the level of skill of one of ordinary skill in the art. It is also the position of the examiner that the selection of fish gelatin over gelatin of other sources is not a patentable distinction, as the selection of a particular type of gelatin is considered to be well within the purview of one of ordinary skill in the art, absent a showing of unexpected results by the applicant. Claim limitations containing specific amounts of specific ingredients are considered by the examiner to be attainable by one of ordinary skill in the art through routine experimentation, and as such as not considered to impart a patentable distinction above the prior art, without a showing of unexpected results. Claim limitations reciting specific moist tissue surfaces are considered by the examiner to be recitations of intended use, and thus do not carry patentable weight.

Thus, the instantly claimed invention is prima facie obvious.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to Claims 4-9, 11, 13-16, 29-32, 34-42, 44-46, 51, 52, and 55-60 have been considered but are moot in view of the new grounds of rejection.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 18-26, 28, 43, 47, and 48 are allowed.
